25,000 Tickets at 10 Dols.

WITHOUT DEDUCTION.

To draw THREE times a week, and 1000 numbers each day. Prizes payable without deduction, Sixty days after the drawing is completed.

INTERNAL IMPROVEMENT, the object of the above Scheme, must be allowed by all, to be of the highest importance to these United States and every good citizen must feel himself deeply interested on every intimation of undertakings, having Internal Improvement in view, being set on foot, and be desirous of aiding according to his abilities, towards the promotion thereof.

Under these impressions, the Commissioners in presenting the above Scheme to a generous public, feel a confidence of general and universal support and encouragement, but more particularly from their sister States, Pennsylvania, New-York, Delaware and Maryland; who, we may safely say, have never appealed in vain to their sister state of New-Jersey; but on the contrary, have been, and ever will be, generously supported by her, in the like and other improvements.

As to the Scheme, the commissioners have endeavoured to suit it to the circumstances of all The low price of tickets will preclude very few from an opportunity of securing an independence for life, or acquiring a very handsome remuneration for the trifle advanced.

The many rich prizes it contains, with the others, will all be paid without deduction at the Camden Bank, where the money received for the Tickets will be deposited immediately, for the sole use of the Lottery.

Although there are 25 Capital Stationary Prizes amounting to ☞$67,500, one for each drawing day, yet there remain afloat as many large and valuable prizes, amounting to the sum of $152,500, as are generally to be met with in a whole Scheme, and the whole payable without any deduction therefrom. And for the accommodation of the fortunate adventurers in this Lottery, who may wish to receive their money immediately, a provision will be made at the said Bank for the payment of the prizes the VERY DAY they are drawn, on allowing the customary discount, as in Philadelphia or New-York.

The Lottery will be drawn in Camden, opposite the city of Philadelphia, and the Manager flatters himself that such encouragement will be given by a generous public as will enable him in the course of a very few weeks, to announce in the papers of the several states, the day the drawing will commence.

Contractors will be allowed a liberal discount.

PATENT GAS FIRE,

FOR STEAM BOAT.

A CONCENTRATED FUEL for Steam-Boats has been invented, consisting of Tar or other carbonaceous substance, commingled with Steam,

The apparatus is simple; the management easy and safe. It is a great auxiliary to a wood or coal fire, which it both enlivens, encreases and saves—for it seems to combine so rapidly with the oxygen of the air, as to prevent the wood from wasting or consuming so fast as usual, the blaze, notwithstanding, being very active and intense.

The apparatus consists of a double vessel of copper or iron, cylindrical, lying on its side, upon or rather between the boilers, if there are 2.

Tar, Turpentine, Rosin, Spirits, Oil, or other combustible fluid, being put into the inner one, steam is allowed to flow from the boiler through a pipe and cock into the space between and thro' a few holes on the upper side of the inner one to press on the surface of the tar, which being heated by the surrounding steam, is at pleasure driven out through a small pipe (having a stop cock) meeting and uniting with another pipe leading out steam from the space between—the continuation of the pipe then leads to the fire or flue. The longer this pipe (if kept hot) the better. It need not be more than a quarter of an inch in diameter.

In its way the tar is extremely attenuated and mingling with the steam. Some chemists are of opinion that by the attraction of its carbon, it decomposes the steam into the constituents of water, oxygen and hydrogen, and combines with them to form the highly inflamable Gasses, carbonic-acid and carburetted hydrogen, or if not thus formed in the pipe, they are produced at or near its orifice, which need not be more than the tenth of an inch diameter for a boiler of considerable size.

The only art in management, is to graduate the flow of the tar and steam to such proportion as that neither shall appear to predominate, and in taking care that the fluid be previously strained so as not to obstruct the pipe by any extraneous particles. This will easily be done by placing a seive over the reservoir, from which a pipe (having a stop cock) leads into one end of the tar vessel. There is of course a safety valve and a stop cock to draw the condensed steam from between the two vessels, formed there in the beginning of the operation, while the tar was at a low temperature. Its position on the boilers will, however soon heat it. Tar boils only at a much higher temperature than water—there is therefore no danger from it.

The advantages of this kind of fuel will be very great in long passages. No steam boat or vessel can navigate the Ocean without it; and it will be found economical and convenient in every situation.

Being of recent origin, it has not been put in practice in many instances, but in several, under my own observation, and witnessed by many persons, its effects are admirable.

This advertisement is intended to offer its use gratis to a few boats, whose proprietors shall first obtain licence. The price of this improvement afterwards will be several thousand dollars per boat, which it will be found economical in most situations to pay. The patent right for local use will be for sale after its value shall be further tested.

Licences to use this invention will be granted by

JOHN L. SULLIVAN,
Assignee of the patent of Samuel Morey

Pittsburgh, April 23, 1819

Pittsburgh Gazette.

FRIDAY MORNING, JUNE 11, 1819.

By the steam boat news from Louisville, published to-day, we find that the James Ross, belonging to the Messrs. Whitings, and built in this city, has arrived from Orleans in 14 days! this, we believe, is an unexampled river voyage; the distance is probably 1500 miles.—What an immense field do not these strides in enterprize and improvement open to the speculative mind? It is but a few years since it was considered a voyage of some weeks for a trading boat to descend to Orleans from the Ohio; merchandize now ascends to the centre of the American continent in 14 days.

Now is not the time to taunt the people of Philadelphia with these prospects; they are harrassed enough heaven knows, without recalling to their minds advantages which their extravagant pride and obstinacy have jeopardized; probably lost forever. In a few years this city may rise from her present state of embarrassment to comparative prosperity; but the day will never again beam upon her, that will see her streets crowded with emblems of western enterprize and industry. She may rise again from her present depression, but she will rise like Austria from the embrace of Napoleon, shorn of much of her glory and honour. In the present state of affairs, every calculation that may be indulged in, must be only applicable in futuro, because nothing can be realized now. Our anticipations, however, are, we honestly confess, much more sanguine as they regard Pittsburgh, than they were even in the wildest days of our late splendid career. We have no idea to be sure, that our ground rents will again be at thirty and forty dollars a foot; we have no notion that a sixty feet lot will again sell for more than one double the size in New York or Philadelphia; we cherish not the opinion that the time will return when the yearly rent of a shop or store, will more than pay for the expense of building it. Sorry should we be even to take pleasure in these illusions; more sorry still should we be to see any portion of them realized. But we calculate that her destimes will be substantially great, and that the era of a correct and politic system is rapidly approaching. New principles of economy are dawning upon us; the mercantile and planter interest is undergoing a revolution in feeling and in views; and the fermentation will undoubtedly terminate in a rational, sincere, and efficient patronage of manufactures. If Philadelphia then for the future can retain any hold upon the west, it must only be through the means of Pittsburgh. The source of manufactures will lie here; articles of all descriptions will be scattered from this place over the whole western continent. How much this will tend to bring the western traders to Pittsburgh, and when here, how much they may be influenced by inducements hereafter to be created, to visit Philadelphia, we know not; but it is certain, that in a few years, the consideration will be of very little importance to Pittsburgh. Let the Philadelphians look to it.

No. III.

"Every body."

IT is probable that no other language of the universe, save our own "plain English," affords a phrase capable of so various, contradictory and indefinite definitions as that of "every body." It means a great many, a few, two or three, an individual, nobody; in short it is made to suit the convenience of every body, and like the breath of the clown in Esop's fable, that so disgusted the Satyr his host, is made to blow either hot or cold, to suit self interest or caprice. If we are desirous of continuing in the practice of any cherished vice or folly, we search just far enough through society to adduce examples of congenial spirits, and then reply to the admonitions of our own conscience, or to those friends whose benevolence and candour overpowers the consideration of policy, "I am not singular every body does the same."

Reproach the person launching out into a luxurious extravagance, that threatens his ruin, and with his mind fixed on a few instances of assimilating madness, whom with inferior means, it has been his ambition to imitate perhaps surpass, and he declares that "every body" stretches a point to make a figure in the world Reprove the youth who evinces a silly desire to rival a few fantastic minions of fashion, who Proteus like, vary their plumage with the whim of each succeeding hour, ate very change appearing more ridiculous, & he replies "every body studies appearances," or "a person might as well be out of the world as out of fashion." Tell him that half the time and expense devoted to mental improvement might raise him in the scale of human beings, from an imitative kind of man-monkey, to a rational thinking being, and he will laugh at you as every sensible person does at him.

Reproach the iniquitous usurer, who illicits some unsuspecting victim of misfortune into his toils, and having secured him in his remorseless fangs, drains from his trembling heart the last drop of his existence, and he replies with the cold blooded apathy of a demon, "I only attend to my interest, every body does the same." Thus is the magical cloak of "every body" assumed at pleasure, to cover the hideous deformities of vice, or the foolscap and party coloured frippery of folly and caprice.

The importunate solicitor for a bank loan considers that "every body" consists of the few directors. To their opinions he pays a profound deference, courts their smiles with unceasing assiduity, trembles under the lower of their frown; but treats the rest of the world, among whom it is probable that quite as worthy, wise, and virtuous characters might be found, with sovereign indifference—because he sees no clear prospect of being "paid for his trouble." Yet it is very probable that those golden smiles that he hailed as the day star of promised wealth, may prove in the end an ignis fatuus light, that has deluded the delighted victim into the bogs of bankruptcy.

The dashing belle, anxious to dazzle and bewilder in the gaudy trappings of some new and extravagant costume, accuses a parent, who happens to have a little more common sense and prudence, of cruel parsimony, in denying this reasonable indulgence to her, when "every body," meaning two or three butter flies of fashion, who, camelion like, assume the colour of each varying caprice of their own, or the mercenary inclinations of their milliners, are indulged by their parents.

The lover, "sighing like a furnace," who eagerly seeks through a crowded assembly for his fair Dulcinia, declares, in the bitterness of his soul, at not finding her, that there is nobody there, although he is nearly suffocated by the pressure of the croud: and there is not an individual of the hundreds present, who do not consider themselves as "every body," however unimportant they may appear to all the world beside. Indeed it is precisely that sort of character that is most likely to be puffed up and inflated, almost to bursting with self importance:

> For as in bodies, so in souls we find,
> What wants in blood and spirits, swell'd with wind.

She, even she, who in the gossamer hours of youth, had flitted like a wanton bee from flower to flower, sipping the honey of adulation, from every body, and though surfeited with sweets, yet with the cravings of a sickly appetite still longing for variety:

> As if increase of appetite had grown
> By what it fed on:

now metamorphosed into an affectionate wife, considers the whole world as concentred in that multum in parvo, her husband—and though surrounded by thousands, feels in his absence alone and desolate, mentally exclaiming in the midst of a populous city, "every body has deserted the town:" and happy, thrice happy is she, who in the main, views her world of happiness, through the magnifying optics of connubial love.

CLEVELAND, (Ohio) May 11.

The Indians who murdered Wood and Bishop, after acknowledging the fact, say, that they went to other camps, to kill others, but that the dogs would not permit them to get near the huts—that they did not get so much booty as they expected, at the place where they committed the murder, and that they were determined to get as much furs as they could, & murder every person in their camps, (provided they could find them sleeping) till they effected this object.

One of the murderers, is a lad of only about 16 years of age, and it is thought he will be cleared on account of his age Numerous are the reports respecting this lad—some of which go to criminate and others to clear him. By information received from a gentleman, who had conversed with the prisoners, through their interpetrer, we are informed that after Wood was killed and Bishop so much disabled as to be held up by the two elder ones, the lad struck him several blows on the head with the tomahawk which laid him dead at his feet. Whether he took any part in the murder of Wood, we are unable to say. The other two are also young, the one 19 and the other 23.—The eldest of which has a wife and one child. The murderers were given up by their chiefs, with the greatest apparent cheerfulness—the lad of 16 years old was taken in his father's hut. The father & mother showed some symptoms of sorrow, but said 'if he is the rogue, take him away—try him by your laws, and punish him according to his deserts.'

Whilst the tear of sympathy stole down the cheek of the unhappy parents, they resigned their son into the hands of justice, to atone for his crimes. Here we find even amongst the natives of the forest, a veneration for justice rarely to be met with amongst people professing the name of christians.

The 3 Indians who murdered Wood and Bishop, are confined in Huron jail—they have not been brought to this place, as was supposed they would have been—probably owing to the short time they will have to be confined till the court.

NEW INVENTED TEAM-BOAT.—We were highly gratified this morning in viewing the successful operation of a newly improved team-boat, invented by Mr. Barnabas Langdon; the machinery is on so simple a plan, that the whole expense will not exceed 400 dollars, and requires but two horses to propel the boat. She crossed the river, which is nearly 500 yards in width, at the upper ferry in less than three and a half minutes; after which she ascended the river in front of this city, against a strong current, in fine style, amid the acclamations of a large concourse of spectators. We sincerely wish this ingenious self-taught mechanic ample remuneration for all his labours.

WEST-CHESTER, (Penn) May 25.

Worthy of notice.—At a saw mill one mile east of Chadd's Ford across the Brandywine, and about the middle of last March, as a man was sawing a large Poplar log, he was surprised at hearing the saw strike against something very unusual which obliged him to stop the mill, upon examination it proved to be a Cannon Ball of four pounds weight, completely grown over so as to leave no mark. It appears evident from every circumstance that this ball was discharged from the American battery on the day of the battle of Brandywine, Sept. 11, 1777, as the tree in which it was found grew just back of the ground where the British soldiers were encamped. From that time to the present is more than forty-one years that it has lain perfectly harmless, though we cannot say what damage it may have done in its passage from the gun to the tree.

MAMMOTH BOY.—Of all the wonders which the "era of good feelings" has given birth to, that of the infant child now exhibiting in this town, may justly be ranked among the first. He was born in Prospect, in the District of Maine, on the 20th day of June, A. D. 1817, being less than two years of age,—He is of the following dimensions, viz:—

In Height, - - - - 3 feet,
Girts round the calf of his leg, 15 inches,
" round his leg an inch above the knee " 15 1-4, round the waist, 3 ft. 6 inches! Considerably larger than a common sized man. His weight, when last taken, was 104 lbs.! His appetite is remarkably keen and his health good; so that in process of time he bids fair to vie with Daniel Lambert or Larry O'Brien, the Irish Giant.

WASHINGTON, May 24.

A letter from a gentleman in North Carolina, to his friend in this city, says—'The East India merchants and brokers are ruining the country; nor can the extent of the mischief be seen. Two brokers from New-York have, in the course of a few weeks, carried from this state, it is believed, an hundred thousand dollars in specie, and further runs are apprehended. And no doubt the reports you mention, which are calculeted to sink the value of our state bank notes a broad, are connected with these runs, & fabricated for the purpose of infamous speculation. It must be evident that, if this course be unremittingly pursued, it will break every bank in the Union, as it is impossible to replenish our vaults so fast as these enemies of the community can, in this way, draw out the specie. To prevent a complete exhaustion of specie, if these runs are continued, the banks, in defence, will be driven into a refusal to pay specie when thus run upon. But the difficulty will be in making the distinction. Congress, in my opinion, would have prevented all this distress by prohibiting the exportation of specie, and nothing else will produce the desired effect. I know some think that this would not: but I should like to see it tried."

These brokers will soon find running the banks rather an unprofitable business, it is to be hoped. We should fear that the refusal to meet the demands of these runners would but create them a golden harvest. But those who have the direction of these Institutions are the best judges of the policy it is proper for them to pursue. As to the runners it is no bad criterion of the estimation in which they hold their own vocation, that they, as we are informed, frequently either wholly refuse their names, or appropriate to their use feigned names when they go on these expeditions.

Invention—Messrs. E. & C. Smith have advertised in a Utica paper a new invention for excavating the earth and for raising the stone. It is stated that two of these machines are now in operation on the great western canal—that each actually raises one ton twelve feet and carries it off seventy feet, & returns again with the empty box to the place where it was taken up, in the space of one minute and a half. This is performed by one horse and two men; one man attends the horse, the other attends the boxes, to unhook two hooks from the empty box and hook them again to the next fullest box, when that is raised carried off, and returns in the same manner.—Columbian.

[From the N. York Evening Post, May 29.]

Sir Philip Sidney said, as Addison tells us, that he never could read the old ballad of Chevy Chase, without feeling his heart beat within him, as at the sound of a trumpet. The following lines, which are to be ranked among the highest inspirations of the Muse, will suggest similar associations in the breast of the gallant American officer.

THE AMERICAN FLAG.

When Freedom, from her mountain height,
Unfurled her standard to the air,
She tore the azure robe of night,
And set the stars of glory there!
She mingled with its gorgeous dyes
The milky baldrick of the skies,
And striped its pure celestial white
With streakings of the morning light;
Then, from his mansion in the sun,
She call'd her eagle bearer down,
And gave into his mighty hand
The symbol of her chosen land!

Majestick monarch of the cloud!
Who rear'st aloft thy regal form,
To hear the tempest-trumping loud,
And see the lightning-lances driven,
When stride the warriours of the storm,
And rolls the thunder-drum of heaven!
Child of the Sun! to thee 'tis given
To guard the banner of the free,
To hover in the sulphur smoke,
To ward away the battle stroke,
And bid its blendings shine afar,
Like rainbows on the cloud of war,
The harbingers of victory!

Flag of the brave! thy folds shall fly,
The sign of hope and triumph high!
When speaks the signal trumpet-tone,
And the long line comes gleaming on,
(Ere yet the life-blood, warm and wet,
Has dim'd the glist'ning bayonet,)
Each soldier's eye shall brightly turn
To where thy meteor-glories burn,
And, as his springing steps advance,
Catch war and vengeance from the glance!
And when the cannon-mouthings loud,
Heave in wild wreaths the battle-shroud,
And gory sabres rise and fall,
Like shoots of flame on midnight's pall!
There shall thy victor glances glow,
And cowering foes shall sink beneath,
Each gallant arm that strike below,
That lofty messenger of death.

Flag of the seas! on ocean's wave
Thy stars shall glitter o'er the brave,
When death, careering on the gale,
Sweeps darkly round the bellied sail,
And frighted waves rush wildly back
Before the broad-side reeling rack,
The dying wanderer of the sea
Shall look, at once, to heaven and thee,
And smile to see thy splendours fly,
In triumph, o'er his closing eye.
Flag of the free hearts only home,
By angel hands to valour given!
Thy stars have lit the welkin dome,
And all thy hues were born in Heaven!
For ever float that standard sheet!
Where breathes the foe but falls before us?
With Freedom's soil beneath our feet,
And Freedom's banner streaming o'er us!

PITTSBURGH.

Friday, June 11, 1819.

DIED, on the 7th instant, JOHN RIDDLE, Esq. formerly of Chambersburg, Pennsylvania, in the 68th year of his age.

In the death of this venerable citizen society has suffered a serious loss, which cannot easily be supplied. Mr. Riddle commenced life as a soldier of the revolution, and bore his part in that glorious struggle with great respectability & unshrinking firmness; he had the entire confidence of his superior officers, and on one occasion he was honoured by the particular notice of General Washington. At the end of the war he retired with the rest of his brethren in arms, to civil life, & held many important offices in Franklin county, with great honour to himself and usefulness to the district in which he resided. In after life he devoted himself to the education of youth, & in this sacred employment he fulfilled with eminent success some of the most important duties of life. Mr. Riddle's morals were of the most disciplined kind, and he drew from religion most of the comforts of his life; he departed from this world, without a murmur with a full conviction of enjoying happiness in a better.

Banks are pretty much in the situation of the old man, and his ass, in Æsop; it is impossible for them to please every body. But a short time since, the whole American world were calling out shame upon them, for not calling in their notes and making them more precious, by rendering them scarcer; they have no sooner commenced a system of curtailment, in obedience to public opinion, than they are attacked open mouthed, for their wanton cruelty in attempting, in these hard times, to add to the distress of the community, by demanding their just debts. It is however too late now to commence their remonstrances; at all events it is too late as regards Pennsylvania. This ought to have been thought of before our wise legislature undertook to "perform surgical operations" (as Mr. Bache says) on the country last winter. If they had not interfered, the banks might have felt disposed to have given way to the present pressure and have afforded all the relief in their power; it would have been much, if they could have merely abstained from calling in; but the glorious first of August law has cut the matter short; banks have commenced winding up, and the devil take the hindmost. It appears to us, by the way, that people generally have mistaken the intention of this benevolent law seems to sanction; it is believed that banks will be two or three years in winding up, meaning thereby we presume that discounters are to have this period to pay their debts. We question whether stockholders will agree to this arrangement. We take it that the delay that will occur in getting their money will be precisely what the law allows under the old fashion terms, "stay of execution."

The citizens of Kentucky have shewn a providence and prudence lately which it is a pity, do not pervade other parts of the union at this alarming period. The banks have had a convention, and have resolved to continue their curtailments, & the payment of specie. The citizens have in consequence become alarmed, have had meetings, and have drawn up resolutions of great spirit and independence. Those published in Frankfort we consider particularly deserving of attention, as they contain a correct exposition of the state of affairs, the causes that have produced it, and as they point out what we conceive to be the only measures which can be pursued with any prospect of alleviating the present distress. From the names attached to the resolutions & from the pains which have evidently been bestowed upon them, we should suppose they will have considerable effect.

PROSPECTS AHEAD!

We have been interested by the geographical information respecting our remoter Western Territory, afforded us by the St. Louis newspapers, and by the enlarged views of their future destiny, which the writers in those papers have afforded us. Sometimes, perhaps in their flights, they soar too high; sometimes, looking through the vista of futurity, they may forget the ground they tread upon. The following extract, from the St. Louis Inquirer, may serve to exemplify the magnificence of the views of the grandeur of the West, which are entertained in that country:

"The Valley of the Mississippi, according to Mellish, contains one million five hundred thousand square miles.

"The Roman Empire, according to Gibbon, contained, in the time of Augustus Cæsar, one million six hundred thousand.

"That proud empire was, then in the zenith of her power and splendour, and vainly supposed to have embraced the world within her limits; yet was but very little larger than the valley which is bound by the waters of the Mississippi.

"But the dominion of the American Republic in not limited to 1,500,000 square miles. The valley which exhibits that magnificent area is only a part of her empire; which also embraces two Appendant Shops, or borders, one to the east where the old 13 United States are situated, and the other to the west, where the banks of the Columbia and Multomah, and the shore of the Pacific, have yet to invite the cultivating farmer and the exploring genius of the East India merchant.

"These slopes, or borders, being counted in the valleys, will make the American Republic near double the size of the Roman Empire; and every man will see that she will be more powerful in proportion to her superior size, on account of her middle position between Europe & Asia, her compact form, and the natural union, & indivisibility of all her parts."

Our anticipations of the future greatness of this Republic—of its augmented population, intellect, and wealth, have been sometimes thought too sanguine. But, in their widest range, they never reached the period when "the old 13 U. States" were to be considered as a mere appendage to the states which are or shall be formed in the valley of the Mississippi; to be counted in as a mere skirt of the empire of the Republic. This is a new view of the Atlantic States, and calculated to produce the most serious thoughts. That this Republic, will in time, become more powerful than the Roman ever was, we have never doubted; but, we hope, be its power what it may, it will never be employed as that of Rome.—Nat. Intel.

All accounts concur in representing governor Wolcott as having become the most unpopular man in the state. He lately requested the legislature to grant a sum of money to furnish his public room, and after spending two days in zealous debate, whether they should grant $40 or 100, finally passed the bill for the latter sum; generously allowing him to shew off with two chairs, a settee, and a white pine desk.—N. Y. E. Post

From the Albany Argus, May 21.

The weather, for some days, has been remarkably wet and cold for the season. The thermometer, for the 70 hours, has ranged from 40 to 50. Considerable snow has fallen upon the mountains, in some places to the depth of four inches. We believe we invariably experience a cold north-east storm in the month of May; caused it is generally believed, by the effluxion of the ices and currents from the polar region, which commence at the vernal equinox. These ices generally reach our latitude between the 20th of May and 15th June. The weather preceding the 12th was very mild and vegetation put forth with great vigor.

It is said, that many republicans in the New-York Legislature, will, at the next session unite with the particular friends of Mr. King, to re-elect him to the Senate of the United States. We confess that we should not view this circumstance with any sort of dissatisfaction. In the late war, when his country was invaded or threatend with invasion; when American rights were to be asserted and upheld against foreign encroachments and foreign violence, Mr. King in the true spirit of a patriot, stepped forward, both as an individual and in Senate, to aid the goverment in the vigorous prosecution of the contest. He lent his cordial co-operation in the energetick measures, then deemed essential to the success of the war. Nor have we since, that we remember, witnessed any displays of party feeling from that dignified and intelligent statesman. No good reason why he should be excluded from the national councils to make room for valiable and undisciplined youth, is at this time perceived. We do not think that former political errors should forever debar a man, who now thinks and acts, with his countrymen and his government, from the opportunity of serving them, with ability and wisdom. A man of equal talents and experience, who had been uniformly democratic in his course ought to be preferred; but such a man does not present himself at this time in New-York. We should therefore wish to see Mr. King continued in the Senate.—Franklin Gaz.

Cession of Cuba.—A letter from a planter in the Island of Cuba, to a gentleman in this city, dated 22d April, says, "You have, no doubt, already been informed of the very interesting report concerning the entire cession of this Island to Great Britain. It has caused great commotion in the minds of all the inhabitants, both foreign and native. I have conversed with many natives on the subject, and they say it is impossible for their king to do any such thing; that they will not agree to the sale. They suppose the United States will assist them in case of such an event; and say they ought to be allowed the preference, if they are to be sold, and they have no doubt but the United States will assist the loan of the necessary money, as it would be so severe a blow to their commerce," &c.—Charleston paper.

United States Bank Stock, was offered on Thursday morning, in New-York at 96¼—96 was offered; no sales made. The Philadelphia Democratic Press of last evening, says, that "a few shares were sold yesterday morning at 96, and any number of shares might have been had at the same price."

BALTIMORE, May 29.

The run upon the Mechanics' Bank, which commenced yesterday, was resumed this morning, and continued until about 12 o'clock, when applications for specie had almost entirely ceased.—These demands were met in a manner so prompt and liberal, by all the officers of the bank, as to have a most salutary effect upon the minds of those who were influenced by erroneous impressions to give them a call.

The city bank, agreeable to their advertisement, have met the calls upon it in a corresponding manner; and when our paper went to press, the demand had very essentially decreased. One or two of the other banks were teazed a little, but we presume by Monday morning all unnecessary excitement will cease. Patriot.

Eleven of the pirates who left the brig Irrisistible in the Chesapeake and came up to this town have been apprehended and committed to jail. An affidavit enumerating the robberies committed by this lawless gang during their cruise, has been made before the Mayor, which clearly proves the fact of their having plundered the American brig Superior, while on her passage from Baltimore to New-Orleans. They will remain in our jail subject to the order of the United States District Court, which convenes at Richmond on Saturday next—three of them are coloured men. There are five others we understand who have been shipped for the United States service, and are now on board the ship Alert; they will be demanded by the civil authority to be dealt with according to the laws they have violated.—Norfolk Her.

From the Albany Gazette, ay 27.

The Canal Loan, of two hundred thousand dollars, has been taken by the Mechanics and Farmers Bank in this city, at a premium of two dollars and sixty three cents per hundred dollars.—There were several other offers, but none on terms equally favourable.

AUGUSTA, (Georgia,) May 14.

We give in this day's paper, the sentence in the case of Hypolite, a slave belonging to Mr. Cowling, and forbear, for the present, making any remarks upon the mercy of the Court.

Paul or Hypolite, a negro slave, the property of John G. Cowing, for the crime as before mentioned, found—but on a recommendation of the jury to mercy, the court with great deference, willing to alleviate his case, and spare his life, determined in substance as follows:—To morrow, the 14th May, to be taken to the market-house, in the city of Augusta, between the hours of ten and two o'clock, you are to receive on your bare back twenty-five lashes, well laid on with a cowskin, whip or hickory; and on every third day thereafter (Sundays excepted) between the same hours, and at the same place, you shall receive the like number of lashes, until you have received two hundred and fifty lashes—& on the day on which you shall receive the last 25 lashes, you shall moreover have both your ears cropped, and your left cheek branded with the letter R; after which to be discharged on payment of costs.

PHILADELPHIA, May 28.

United States' Bank Stock.—No alteration since yesterday; 94 offered 95 asked. The offers but few and for a small amount. There was one real sale yesterday at 94½.

Flour.—Superfine flour may now be purchased in this city at six dollars a barrel. From the current testimony of persons from all parts of Pennsylvania, there is this state the prospect of a greater crop of Grain and Grass, than there has been for 20 years.

On the 18th May, the legislature of Connecticut passed an act authorising their government to present to Com. M'Donough an elegant pair of pistols, with complimentary devices, as a tribute to his valor in the ever memorable battle of Lake Champlain, with the British fleet. Commodore M'Donough is not a native of Connecticut, but married there; and the state by this attention have shewn a determination to encourage and reward merit, though not the offspring of its own clime.—Baltimore paper.

CONSUMPTION.

We published some time ago a very simple receipt for the consumption, which was a fumigation over a pan containing half a pound of Rossin and a pound of yellow wax. A subscriber informs us, that his friend in Philadelphia has tried it with great success when in a very low state, and he now breathes free, his cough has left him, and he expectorates with ease. The receipt is worthy particular attention.—Nat. Advocate.

FOREIGN.

London, April 12.—The two Houses of Parliament adjourned on Thursday night, for the Easter Recess, the Lords till Friday the 22d inst. and the Commons till the day preceding, Wednesday the 21st. The Bill for restraining Cash Payments at the Bank of Ireland went through its remainining stages in the House of Lords, and received the Royal Assent by Commission.

In the House of Lords, on Tuesday, the Marquis of Lansdown gave notice, that soon after the holidays he would move for the production of all correspondence and communication between his Majesty's government and the United States of America, respecting the late war with the Seminoles, more particularly respecting the conduct pursued towards British subjects.

The London Courier of the 12th of April says—"An attempt has been made to poison the Emperor of Austria, in his passage through Mantua. This diabolical design, it seems, was meditated by a set of reformers, called the Carbonari, certain united individuals who imagine that Italy can never be well governed till all its various states are united under one sceptre. The political relations of the House of Austria with the north of Italy are an obstacle in the way of this scheme—and with a degree of folly equalled only by the atrocity of the design, it appears to have been believed that destroying the head of that House would annihilate, also, the matured policy of Europe which determined the existing condition of Italy. The absurdity of this supposition might excite only our derision, were it not for the profligacy of the intention with which it is united. Assassination seems to be a growing favourite with the professors of liberal doctrines all over the world. It is an expeditious remedy for suppositious wrongs—well suited to the motives of those who complain. And we observe, there is always a mischievous spirit of ingenuity at work to contrive palliatives for the abhorrence of mankind at such atrocities. Thus, the Morning Chronicle thinks it "at least as probable, that the conspiracy alluded to, has been charged upon the members of this secret society, as a pretext to justify still harsher measures against them, as that any of them had actually compassed the death of the Emperor of Austria."

George Darien, Esq. has been chosen governor, and Charles Hole, Esq. deputy governor of the Bank of England.

A plan is in contemplation for enabling the Bank of England to return to cash payments, and at the same time to keep the gold in the country. It is to coin gold pieces, which shall pass at the value of one guinea, but which shall not be worth more than 17 shillings.

The Liverpool Mercury says, that the Duke of Wellington refused to present to the House of Lords, the Anti-Catholic petition of the corporation of Dublin.

In a late publication by captain Ross, commander of the Discovery ships, it is stated, that when the ships were in lat. 76, 12, in certain states of the sun, objects at the distance of 150 miles were distinctly visible.
